The webinar on "German Alienation and COVID-19 Pandemic - An Interpretation" was held on 10th July, 2020, organized by Dept. of Philosophy, in collaboration with, IQAC, DumDum Motijheel Rabindra Mahavidyalaya to explore the socio-cultural implications of the COVID-19 pandemic on the German society as well as the world, focusing particularly on themes of alienation and identity. The objective of the webinar was analyzed how the COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated feelings of alienation among individuals in our society. Examine the impact of social distancing measures on community cohesion and interpersonal relationships. Explore potential avenues for fostering solidarity and resilience amidst the challenges posed by the pandemic.

The webinar attracted a diverse audience comprising scholars, researchers, students, and members of the general public interested in German culture and society. The audience actively participated in live discussions, expressing shared experiences of isolation and longing for human connection amidst the challenges posed by the pandemic. Attendees highlighted the importance of cultural resilience and solidarity in overcoming feelings of alienation and despair. The webinar was hosted on a user-friendly platform, facilitating seamless interaction and engagement among participants. Technical support staff ensured smooth execution, addressing any minor technical issues promptly. Post-webinar surveys indicated high levels of satisfaction among attendees, with 95% expressing appreciation for the insightful discussions and thought-provoking presentations. Feedback emphasized the relevance of the webinar topic and the need for continued dialogue on fostering social cohesion in times of crisis.

The webinar provided a platform for critical reflection and dialogue on the socio-cultural dimensions of the COVID-19 pandemic in Germany along with the world. By shedding light on experiences of alienation and resilience, the event contributed to a deeper understanding of the human impact of the crisis and underscored the importance of solidarity and community support in navigating uncertain times.

We extend our sincere gratitude to the speaker, panelists, our all the teaching staff and attendees for their valuable contributions to the success of the webinar. Special thanks to our college Principal Dr. Sandip Dasgupta for organizing this insightful event and fostering meaningful dialogue on pressing societal issues. This webinar report encapsulates the key insights and discussions from the webinar, serving as a reference for further research and discourse on the intersection of pandemic dynamics and socio-cultural phenomena in the world.

Thank You
